TOM PAINE

A few days ago two clergymen spoke warmly in memory of Tom Paine, who was, perhaps the most celebrated of English-speaking secularists. It was not to Paine the freethinker, of course, that a bronze tablet has just been erected by the Greenwich Village Historical Society on the site formerly occupied by the house where he died on June 8, 1909; but to the Paine who was one of the leaders of the American revolution. He was born in England and came to America at the invitation of Ben Franklin, who knew his unusual abilities. Into the revolutionary struggle he threw himself with his accustomed ardor, and became, perhaps, the most brilliant pamphleteer connected with the colonies' cause. He returned to England and continued to preach his republican doctrines, which made no impression whatever. Then he went to France, where he again became a revolutionary hero, but he lost much of this popularity with the leaders of the movement because of his moderation. He was arrested, and took advantage of his situation to finish his great work, "The Age of Reason." On his release he returned to the United States and remained inactive until his death, comparatively neglected by those who had been his associates in the work of establishing the Republic.

There can be little doubt that Tom Paine would have ranked with Franklin, Jefferson and the others had it not been for his well-known heretical views on matters of religion, or even had he been content like some other of the fathers of their country to keep his anti-Christian opinions to himself. It seems probable that he thought his views upon religion even more important than his views upon political subjects. From some of the speeches made at the memorial ceremonies we gather that in the past hundred years much of the philosophy of Paine has entered the orthodox churches. For instance, Dean Joseph French Johnson, of the New York University, said:

"Were he alive to-day it is possible he might be a college president, and if so his commencement address would put the fear of God into his hearers. There are to-day many religious leaders who are honest enough not to cast a stone at Paine, and I am sure there are many others who although they may condemn Paine publicly, would not hesitantly throw a stone at him if they thought God were looking at them."

ONE CHANCE IN 10,000

A bankrupt Wall Street broker Louis Kardos, has written a book on Wall Street from within. He says that a speculator on the "outside" has one chance in ten thousand to beat the game. If the public wins, the inside speculators lose, and they have the control. The battle is largely a psychological one, in which the public are induced to buy on margin on a rising market, and then when it is loaded up—each expecting to sell out on someone else—the professionals knock the props from under, and the public get cleaned out. The public put up the stake on the long side, and when the time is ripe the shorts knock down prices and make double profits—on their sales and on their raking in on the margins. The average business man who can make money in his own business is a loser in Wall Street, because he plays according to his sense of values, and stocks seldom keep a continuous course on that basis. As a rule, they are the high or too low and are that way because they are more affected by trading—the pressure of buying and selling—than actual intrinsic value. The man who makes money in a bull market, usually goes to a bear market. Over-confidence, failure to appreciate the propaganda game, poor judgment of seasons, inability to stay out of the game for desirable periods, and sudden turns in world events that no one can foresee, are causes of failure. It is obvious that the whole machinery of Wall Street, with its myriad ramifications over the Continent, is supported by the commissions and losses of the public. At one time there were only 600 prominent trading stocks. Now they are numbered by the tens of thousands.

BURKE'S PEEPAGE IS A HUNDRED YEARS OLD

Among the many institutions menaced or interrupted by the war was the annual issue of "Burke's Peepage," which was established a hundred years ago. The ninety-fifth edition has just appeared though had it not been for the war it would have been the hundredth. The present editor is Sir Henry Farnham Burke, K.C.V.O., who is also Garter King of Arms and is thus head of the Herald's College and the official and final authority upon coats-of-arms, heraldic devices and British genealogy. Like his father before him, Sir Bernard Burke, he is recognized as the greatest expert upon these matters to which he has devoted his life, although many may think that such pursuits are hardly worthy of the unusual talent and industry that the Burke family has brought to bear upon them. But according to Frederick Canfield Owen, the contents of "Burke's" is a matter of the greatest importance not only to British people, but to Americans, as well, who wish to trace their families or the families of their friends. According to him, there are few volumes in greater demand in the public libraries of the New World than those of the celebrated Burke.

A Monumental Work
Every edition of Burke from the first one issued by John Burke, the erudite Irishman who established the series a century ago, contains a complete genealogy of every family in the British Empire that bears a hereditary title. Every pedigree has been most carefully scrutinized and divested of all fairy tales of a genealogical character and mythical pretensions to ancestors. There is documentary authority of the soundest kind for every fact recorded, and on this account it may properly be said that there is no book published, not excluding the standard dictionaries, that is freer from error. What most concerns Americans is that "Burke's" are those pages which show instances of various members of the British aristocracy having "emigrated to America" and there are hundreds of such notes to be found in the volume. Many of them emigrated in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries and there all trace of them is lost so far as Burke is concerned. How delightful for the American reader to discover that no doubt he is a descendant of one of these noble obscurities, and has in his veins the blood of dukes, rather than the blood of peasants!

Establishing Relationships
Mr. Owen says it is always easy to find among the immediate progenitors of Americans either in that country or in Great Britain, someone identified with the aristocracy of the United Kingdom. Burke whets their appetite for further nourishment of the sort and when they go to England they flock to the National Library of the British Museum where, attendants say, American visitors surpass in number those of all other foreign countries put together, and 65 per cent of them ask for works on genealogy. Both in the United States and abroad are plenty of professional genealogists who make handsome fees by establishing kinships on the mere strength of similarity of names, and according to the supply, to countries put together, and 65 per cent of them ask for works on genealogy. Both in the United States and abroad are plenty of professional genealogists who make handsome fees by establishing kinships on the mere strength of similarity of names, and according to the supply, to countries put together, and 65 per cent of them ask for works on genealogy.

The Fermoys Case
As illustrating the care which "Burke's" editor must exercise, Mr. Owen mentions the quarrel between the publisher and the late Lord Fermoys. The latter was long married to an American wife, who was the daughter of Frank Work of New York. With her two children she left Lord Fermoys, who was then the Hon. James Burke Roche and through the Delaware courts proceeded to secure a divorce from her Irish husband. This was in 1891, and the fact was duly recorded in the next issue of Burke's. At the time Roche was running for Parliament in an Irish constituency and feeling that his chances of election had been prejudiced by the register's announcement that he was a divorced man, he entered suit against the publisher. He contended that as he was an Irishman neither he nor his wife could secure a divorce except by Act of Parliament, since divorce has always been unknown in Irish jurisprudence. He asserted that the American divorce was valueless in the eyes of English and Irish law, since his wife by her marriage had become a British subject and therefore could have the marriage tie severed only by Act of Parliament or action of a British court.

Secured Damages
Roche therefore asked for damages, because while he was not himself a Roman Catholic, he was living in a part of Ireland where Catholics abounded, and where there was a certain odium attached to all divorces. That he was injured by the publication seems likely, for he never was elected, but he had the satisfaction of making Burke pay him damages and all subsequent editions of the work have omitted mention of the Delaware divorce, which while it was sufficient to break the family ties of the Fermoys, had not acquired sufficient authenticity to be chronicled in such work as Burke's. However, since Lord Fermoys is dead, Burke's present edition has ventured again to mention the fact that his wife, the present dowager Lady Fermoys, and mother of the present Lord Fermoys felt obliged to divorce him some thirty years ago.

CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES ARE NOW STANDARDIZED

Housekeepers run practically no risk of getting a poor quality of canned fruits or vegetables if they will be careful to order by quality grade. All canned goods put up in the larger factories must conform to legal standards, and these are shown on the label of the can. The system of standardizing canned fruits and vegetables is explained in the May-June number of the Agricultural Gazette by C. S. McGillivray, the Chief Canning Inspector of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

The four legal standards of quality for fruits and vegetables are—"Fancy Quality," "Choice Quality," "Standard Quality," and "General Quality." In addition to general standards for vegetables, specific grades have been established for canned peas. These are as follows:
Size No. 1, Size No. 2, Size No. 3, and Size No. 4. The size is determined by the opening in the sieve through which the green peas will pass.
Canned fruits are graded for quality and syrup, in grading for syrup, the terms "Heavy Syrup," "Light Syrup," and "Without Sugar" are employed. If the packer so desires, he may substitute the words "Packed in Syrup" for "Sugar," (stating the percentage of sugar in the syrup).
The terms denoting quality and grade must appear upon the main portion of the label in plain type of a size not less than 1/8 of an inch in height. Thus, in the case of peas, the label must indicate the quality and size of the peas contained in the can, thus—"Fancy Quality, Size No. 1." In the case of fruit, it must indicate the quality of the article as well as the consistency of the syrup so far as sugar content is concerned. "Fancy Quality—Heavy Syrup."
The declaration of net weight on certain size of containers is not required, as these sizes have been standardized. These sizes are known as Size 1's, 1 1/2's, 2's 2 1/2's, 3's, and 10's. The minimum net weight of both liquid and solids as packed is defined for each of these sizes. Sizes not standardized must show on the label the net weight and the drained weight.

GRANUM NEWS

PRECIPITATION OF 2 1/2 INCHES AT GRANUM

Granum, June 22.—Heavy overhanging clouds cleared away to some extent at noon today, and there are evidences that the weather is clearing after a thirty-six hour rain which began about midnight on Thursday giving a precipitation of two and three-quarter inches. Summerfalling will be held up, and some crop will be under water, but no one is crying out against an over-abundance. Experienced farmers say that the crop is practically assured from the standpoint of moisture, while danger from hopper activity, and the cutworm pest, will be greatly lessened.

"MY BUICK"

I have a sturdy Buick, a nineteen-eighteen Four, and every ride she's given me has made me long for more; For when she starts a-purring with a steady, rhythmic peal, The greatest thing in life, my friends, is a seat behind the wheel.

I've often heard of Sousa's band, no doubt 'tis very nice; And Paderewski's playing brings a mighty handsome price. But I think I know of something that can beat them both for thrills— 'Tis the music of my Buick when she scampers up the hills.

I have braved untrodden snowdrifts, I have been through Noah's flood; I have challenged many sandhills and encountered tons of mud; And through them all my little car has proved to be a brick, For her middle name, efficiency, has always turned the trick.

Should I slight her and neglect her till she only has one lung, Even then she'll manage somehow to get me through unstrung, For she never is a quitter in whatever game I play And you cannot get her rattled for she isn't built that way.

But it pays to use her kindly, she'll return it every hour With the skill of her performance and her wealth of grace and power. Why, she keeps my spirits sailing through a land of milk and honey For she's right there every quarter with the interest on my money.

I'd hate to part with her, somehow, she seems like a faithful friend; A faithful and resourceful pal whose patience knows no end.

There is only one condition that will ever bring me to it— I'll have to have in place of her a handsome, brand new Buick.

THE ROYAL GRAIN INQUIRY COMMISSION

For twenty years, more or less, there has been a continual protest from the farmers of Western Canada in regard to our present system of marketing grain. The protest has continued ever since the adoption of the present elevator system. The farmers have protested against the elevator companies, the grain exchange, the railways, the exporters, and every other person who had anything to do with the marketing. We find no fault with these protests—human institutions are fallible. It may be the fault-finding was justified. The whole marketing system of grain in Western Canada has grown up and developed within the past few years. It is absurd to expect it to be perfect, or even capable at all times of meeting the demands made upon it.

It may be true that this system is not the best that can be devised. Some of the ablest men in Canada have condemned it. Many of the keenest minds have praised it, but the point we want to make now is that the government has appointed a commission to investigate the whole business, and it is the duty of farmers and of all others interested to state their problems before this commission as clearly as possible, with the one idea of helping to devise means of improvement.

The commission begins at Edmonton on June 25th. It goes to Stettler on the 27th, Calgary on the 28th, Vulcan July 4th, Cardston July 6th, Lethbridge on the 9th, Claresholm on the 11th, and Alton on the 13th. These meetings cover the province in a broad and general way. All those who lay any claim to special knowledge of marketing problems should attend these meetings prepared to give evidence that will help to solve the particular problems in hand.

Any commission is composed of human beings trying, sometimes vainly, to reach the light. Their ability to solve the problems will depend largely on the amount of help they get from practical men who have had experience in the business of producing and marketing the Canadian grain crop. If you are in a position to give assistance of this kind, make it a point to appear before the commission. If you have any special information you would like the commission to receive, send it to the

LIPTON WILL AGAIN TRY FOR AMERICA CUP

New York, June 21.—Sir Thomas Lipton, famous Irish yachtsman, will challenge again this year for another series of races for the America's cup, to be raced in the summer of 1924, the Evening Post said it had learned today.

Charles Nicholson and William Fife, two of England's most famous yacht designers, are to collaborate on the design of the new challenger, which will be named Shamrock V. It was learned Sir Thomas had ordered the 23-metre Shamrock overhauled, to be taken overseas as a trial horse for the next race, the Shamrock IV, with which Sir Thomas made his fourth unsuccessful effort to lift the cup in 1920, is also to be put again in commission to be used as a trial horse on this side.

The New York "Times" states that there has been 18,000 indictments in respect to breaches of the Volstead Act in New York city and only 13 convictions. Thirteen was always an unlucky number anyhow.

Olsen Creek Stampede Was a Great Success

The annual stampede at Olsen Creek was held Wednesday of last week. The stampede enjoys the reputation of producing the best exhibition of riding and roping in the west and the performance of Wednesday last sustained this reputation. Notwithstanding the threatening weather over two thousand spectators gathered in the natural arena in the Porcupine hills. Every method of transport was utilized and automobiles and trailers were continually getting in each other's way, while the garb of the spectators varied from the blanket of the Indian to the latest creation of dame fashion.

A varied program of western sports had been arranged and notwithstanding the assistance of numerous volunteer judges and assistants was run off on schedule time. The races produced some very good contests and it is apparent that king horse has not been dethroned in this district. The main attraction, however, was the bucking, and after the races the crowd flocked to the corral and saddling chute which had been erected by the lake. Great excitement was manifest as the wranglers endeavored to urge the wily broncho into the chute were willing helpers applied the saddle under the supervision of the rider. With a swing open and the mad brute would make every effort to dislodge the nonchalant rider who urged it on with loud cries of "Hook eye! hook eye!" and lashings with hat and quirt.

The greatest exhibition was given by Mark Thompson on the well known outlaw, Midnight, owned by Jim McNab. This rider had been unfortunate in his selections of horses and had not been extended at all. His ride on Midnight, however, fulfilled all expectations and when the horses were picked up after about 100 yards of furious contortions the rider expressed himself as being very gratified to find himself still aboard.

This horse has been selected for the Calgary stampede and it is confidently expected to worry the best of the riders. Many other good exhibitions were given, notably by Jimmy Hunter, Jackson, Finch and Vailie. The latter rider bit the dust in one of his counters, but soon recovered sufficiently to resume the contest. The results of the various events are as follows:

Half-mile pony race, 1st, E Hunter; 2, H. Altmann.
Half-mile gentlemen's saddle horse 1, F. Hobbs; 2, Chas. England.
Indian race, 1, Strikes With a Gun; 2, Big Bull; 3, Crazy Boy.
Relay race, 1, Big Bull; 2, J. McNab.
Stake race, 1, Big Bull; 2, Yellow Horn.
Bucking contest, 1, Mark Thompson; 2, Jackson; 3, Hunter.
Wild steer riding, Chas. England.

HOG PASTURES

Hog pastures are valuable in pig feeding, both for the young, growing pigs and for the brood sow and her litter.

Sows that have the run of a good pasture, particularly if the ground has been kept free from vermin, are less likely to cause digestive troubles in the young pigs through the milk than are those confined in pens or allowed only the run of a dry lot. The small yards close to the pigery are liable to become infested with vermin, and this is certain to cause serious losses in the young pigs, while ground that is used for pasture is comparatively free from these parasites, particularly if worked up and seeded freshly at least every two years.

It is particularly important to have this fresh, lush pasture available as early as possible in the spring, so that the sows and their litters may be turned out for exercise and feed as soon as the young pigs are old enough. Fall rye is the first pasture available and has a distinct advantage for early spring use over all other pastures on this account.

Alfalfa provides the most desirable permanent pasture, and also produces good succulent growth for a longer time than perhaps any other. Some of the annual pastures furnish more feed for a short time, but none of them have the length of season that alfalfa has; though rape will provide more feed during the late fall than alfalfa. Care must be taken to ring the pigs before turning them onto alfalfa or any permanent pasture; otherwise, they will root it up and destroy the stand.

Sweet clover has so far not been used as a hog pasture at Indian Head in direct comparison, i. e., where the hogs had no access to other pastures. One season a plot of it was grown along with a plot of alfalfa, and the pigs would not eat the sweet clover as long as the alfalfa was available. The grasses are better than bare ground, but do not compare with alfalfa either in carrying capacity or palatability.

Really, the reason babies cry is because everyone says they look like papa.

MACLEOD WON FROM GRANUM

The Macleod Baseball Club took the Granum Club into camp Wednesday in a well contested game. The score was 7-5 and some very good baseball was seen.

Granum scored 3 runs in the first inning and the hopes of the home talent were very low when they failed to score. McDonald retired the Granum side in the 2nd inning. In the Macleod half, Staines struck out and McDonald got a hit. Safe hits by Purcell and Brooks followed scoring one run. McGregor struck out and Kirk was hit by a pitched ball, filling the sacks. Dean then enshrined himself in the hall of fame by leaning on one of Forbes' offerings for a home-run. This feat entitles him to a new hat from manager Mark. Murphy was out, Edwards to Kellicott.

From then on the game was a pitcher's battle. Granum scored a run in the 6th and 7th innings and Macleod scored in the 5th and 6th. Macleod—Kirk a.s.; Dean 1 b.; Murphy 2.b.; Storey 3.b.; Staines l.f.; McDonald p.; Purcell c.; Brooks c.f.; McGregor r.f.

ABRAHAM MARTIN HONORED

At Quebec recently the Hon. Athanasius David, Provincial Secretary in the Quebec Cabinet, officiated at the unveiling of a monument erected by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in memory of Abraham Martin, who was the first known Canadian of Scottish descent and the first King's pilot on the St. Lawrence River. The Plains of Abraham received their name from him, he receiving a grant of the land from Champlain in 1617. The unveiling of the monument, a handsome granite shaft seven feet high surmounted by a globe supported by thistles, was an important event and was attended by a large number of prominent citizens and political representatives. The sturdy pioneer is further acclaimed by Andrew Patterson, who says:—

ABRAHAM MARTIN

Auld Scotland many a hero boasts
From John o Groats to Wigtown's
Coasts,
Both Lowland lads and Highland hosts
That wear the tartan;
But now another seeks your toasts
Old Abra'm Martin.
But what pretence has he to fame,
That we should celebrate his name,
And thus in stone and bronze proclaim
His style and story?
A threefold plea Martin claim
To all this glory.

The first of Scotia's sons was he
To cross Atlantic's stormy sea—
True pioneers of liberty,
Giving their best
That this Dominion fair might be
Blessing and blest.

See in his wake the glorious band,
MacKenzies, Frasers, foremost stand
McDonalds, too, in high command.
And James McGill,
Mountstephen and Strathcona grand
'Twould pages fill.

The first was he to till this plain,
Now sacred to that fierce campaign
When heroes fell, but not in vain
In glorious strife.
O Canada, thine was the gain,
Renewed thy life!

He was the first to mark the tides,
The rocks, the shoals St. Lawrence hides—
The mariner in him confides
And bane his fears;
"The ship," he cries, "in safety rides
When Martin steers."

Though fate 'mong strangers cast his lot
He ne'er forgot he was a Scot,
Thrifty and shrewd he was, I wot,
Canny and gay,
Proud of the nickname that he got,
"Abra'm 'Ecclesie."

Let us whet our race or creed,
This ancient Scot's example heed,
And give the best that's in our breed
That our name may
A Canada in word and deed
High-souled and free.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE
A PERFECT WOMAN

EMPRESS FRIDAY & SATURDAY

GLENWOODVILLE NEWS

Mrs. Jacob Byns was very much surprised when her brother August called her up on the phone from Lethbridge on his way to her home here from Switzerland. This young man has proven to be a splendid violinist, studying 6 years in a conservatory of music in Switzerland and 1 1/2 years in Italy. He expects to give violin lessons in the near future, and already has several students.

June 23rd. (Sunday) 2 o'clock services: Mr. Jessie M. Baker and Mr. A. B. Cure were our speakers. Mr. August Capeaca played a violin solo accompanied by Miss Josephine Leavitt. The selection was the "Angel's Serenade." Mr. Cure sang a sacred solo.

Mrs. Verland R. Leavitt who has been at Raymond visiting with her parents for a week or so, returned on Thursday, accompanied by her sister who will stay for a short time.

Little Luellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kiniry, who has been ill for a long time suffering from a fall which injured her spine, died at the hospital at Cardston, Thursday, June 21st. The parents took the remains to Pincher Creek for interment. This is the second death in Mrs. Kiniry's family recently.

The Hill Spring and Glenwood mutual's exchanged programs Sunday night. The officer and members on the program came early. Pres. Frank Smith took charge of the meeting. Wallace Hurd lead the singing who put a lot of spirit and vim into the songs. Miss Phyllis Fisher repeated the slogan with Scripture reading "We stand for a Pure Life through Clean Thought and Actions." Mrs. Gwen Tanner sang "Boy of Mine" and Mrs. Draper gave a reading "A Scope of Living." Mrs. Mary Grow gave a talk on "The reading course and encouraging the reading habit." Mr. Rex Smith sang a solo and Mr. John Davies sang a base solo. Mrs. Lynn Leavitt played the piano for both selections. Mr. Wallace Hurd gave a violin solo and Mr. Frank Smith gave a splendid talk on "The Borrowing Habit." One of the best features was the community singing lead by Wallace Hurd. Everything was put through with dispatch. We had a good attendance. After the meeting, the Glenwood Mutual officers entertained our visitors at the home of Bishop Leavitt, serving strawberries ice cream and cake. All had a good time with a promise to come back again.

Miss Myrtle Sherwood who is cooking at the construction camp, spent Sunday with her parents.

ALBERTA OUTLOOK BETTER THAN 1915

Calgary, June 22.—Crop report issued by the Canadian National Railways for the last week shows that the present prospects for a bumper crop are the best ever known in the history of Alberta.

Never before, not even in 1915, are the reports from every portion of the province covered by the railways been so uniformly excellent. They set the high mark that might be attained at this time of the year when there is ample precipitation.

FOREST INCOME OF $60 MILLIONS ENHANCED BY FIRE

By Dr. Clifton D. Howe, Acting President, Canadian Forestry Association. In the last analysis, adequate fire protection resolves itself down to the question of whether or not the people of this country wish to save their wood-using industries. Let us look into the service of these to the country. The value of the manufactured pulp and paper products is $250,000,000 per annum. The various companies have invested in the business some $375,000,000. They employ 33,000 men in the mills and in the forest and they pay them each year $40,000,000 in wages. Isn't that business worth saving?

The value of lumber, lath and shingles produced in one year is $150,000,000. Lumber means boards and deals dimension stock—not the finished product, as in the case of paper. I can't find just how much is added to this value by the various minor wood-using industries. With reservations, I will say that the minor industries which depend entirely upon wood, produce products to the value of $50,000,000 annually. They have an invested capital of over $50,000,000. They employ 13,000 people and pay annually in wages around $14,000,000. Is it not worth some effort to keep these industries going?

Are These Worth While? To these should be added the industries that depend in essential part but not entirely, upon forest products. These, such as the horse-drawn and motor-drawn vehicles, produce each year products valued at $66,553,314. The capital invested totals over $65,000,000. The employees number over 9000 to whom are paid wages amounting to nearly $12,000,000.

Going back to the lumber industry proper, we find that its invested capital reaches $250,000,000. It employs 55,000 men, and gives them 600,000,000 in wages annually. That business is worth saving too, is it not? There are more than 100,000 people in Canada at work converting the forest product into wealth in some form or other. They are chiefly heads of families, thus they represent probably a half million people dependent upon the forest for a livelihood. Are they worth while in their work? Are they worth while to the country?

Let me emphasize that our great pulp and paper companies, the great lumber concerns will not exist many years longer unless there is more effective fire protection. In order to get more effective protection, the public must invest more money in it. When we consider the area actually under license or pulpwood concession, the amount expended on it as a whole averages less than one cent per acre per year. In other words we spend less than a cent an acre as an insurance rate on forest lands whose supplies at the present day yields us products to the value of $500,000,000 annually.

The house at Pieve di Cadore in which the great painter Titian was born has been proclaimed a national monument by the Government, as has the birthplace of the poet and dramatist Count Vittorio Alfieri at Asti.

The Manchester "Guardian" has started a relief fund for distressed German students and professors which makes us wonder whether or not they are going to help along the ones who made the poison gas.

REACH & COMPANY LTD. DRY GOODS, BOOTS & SHOES, CLOTHING, ETC. GROCERIES.

Now that the rains have let up for a short time, with the floods receding, Nature will again reassert her scattered forces. Fruits and vegetables are pouring in in floods. It is no use to specify the varieties, the list is too long. Fruits of all kinds; watermelons show up huge and luscious; strawberries will soon be finished, but a multitude of other fruits are taking their place.

It is no good to mention prices, as it is to our mutual interest to give the lowest living prices.

DRY GOODS

you have to get, and it is to your interest to make your money go as far as you can. It is a long time to harvest. Our stock may be small, but is well selected. Our policy is to cull out lines that are slow movers, and to put them on the bargain counter at prices ridiculously low. In fact, we made up our minds to have fresh stock instead of old. A few instances will arrest your attention to goods that were cleared out. We had a stock of women's obsolete house dresses and wrappers. These were offered at less than cost. Every one was sold, so it enabled us to buy the very latest. Another example was women's high-cut canvas Balmorals. But the lines in men's, women's and boys' raincoats was a smash. The rain pelted down, and for refuge, people had to buy. The last one was sold, and the rain stopped. Children's dresses we also nearly gave away. Black underwear for C. P. R. men. Now, next week, we will cut or weed out women's silk and cotton hosiery, as yesterday a traveller for the Mercury Hosiery Company sold us a bill of goods close to $500.00, so we have to make room.
